

INVITATION

Celebrating UN International Anti-Corruption Day: a panel discussion

Tuesday 9 December 2014

WORKING TOWARDS A CORRUPTION FREE WORLD

As the world celebrates UN International Anti-Corruption Day, Mazars reflects on the international efforts made to combat corruption and looks forward to the future.

International Anti-Corruption Day has been celebrated annually on 9 December since 2003. This year, the United Nations Office of Drugs and Crime and United Nations Development Programme have established a global campaign focusing on how corruption hinders efforts to achieve the Millennium Development Goals. Coincidentally, this year also marks the 10th anniversary of the introduction of anti-corruption as the fourth pillar of the United Nations Global Compact.

To celebrate the significant successes achieved so far and discuss ongoing challenges, Mazars is pleased to invite you to an International Anti-Corruption Day event at the Tate Modern on Tuesday 9 December 2014.

We will be joined by a panel of experts who will discuss the ongoing international anti-corruption effort and their hopes for progress over the next ten years. The session will also touch upon the wider ambitions of the UN Global Compact.
